Nixon Agrees To Pull Out 25,000 Men From Vietnam

Troops Will Be Put In Reserve Area: Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 25,000 U.S. troops being withdrawn from Vietnam this summer will not come all the way home, but are expected to be held in reserve in such areas as Okinawa or Hawaii, according to Pentagon sources.

In case of emergencies, the sources indicated, the units could be rushed back to Vietnam.

The said the scaling down of U.S. manpower is expected to begin with an initial pullout of several combat battalions or support-type forces. Identification of the units may not come for several days, the sources said, possibly only after the troops already have left the war zone.

The broad outline for the phased American withdrawal was set Sunday when President Nixon announced that 25,000 men—"a division equivalent"—would be out of Vietnam by August.

The decision was greeted in Washington with some surprise—not that the administration was beginning the long-awaited de-escalation but that it was so limited.

One uniformed officer who was familiar with the various options the administration was studying commented: "That's weird. I've seen numbers of 50,000 and higher. We could have pulled out more."

Pentagon sources noted that the 25,000 means the President probably is authorizing the withdrawal of various small units, not a regular division, as starters.

Thus the Vietnam scaledown will take place in much the same way as the buildup which began four years ago: in piecemeal fashion.

The troop level currently stands at 538,500 although before he left office President Lyndon B. Johnson gave the Pentagon authority to put as many as 549,500 in Vietnam. In recent months top military officers decided the additional forces were not necessary.

Nixon held out hope that further troop withdrawals, something he promised as a presidential candidate, will be possible this year.

Brewery Workers Vote For Strike

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Brewery workers broke off contract talks Sunday after voting overwhelmingly to strike the city's major beer maker today in their first formal walkout since 1953.

Spokesmen for the union representing about 4,500 production workers at breweries which produce Schlitz, Pabst, Blatz, Miller and Gettleman beers said members voted 3,049-507 against accepting management's latest offer.

Negotiations continued for three hours, ending Sunday night with no further talk sessions scheduled.

Eighth Grade Grad At 81

DETROIT (AP)—Taft Martin, who says he is interested in law and "might stick my head into college," will be graduated from the eighth grade Thursday. He is 81.

Martin came to Michigan in 1912 when he was 25 because, "I wanted to see what it was like to live in a place that didn't have any capital punishment."

"When I got here I fell in love with the place," he said.

He was born in Austin, S.C. "That's the railroad station—the post office was in Jenkins."

That was in the days when schooling came a poor second to picking cotton.

"School started the Monday after Thanksgiving," Martin said. "We had to race to get the cotton picked by then. It only lasted for about three months—61 school days—unless they could find someone who would teach for less than $20 a month. In March we had to start hoeing the corn."

"I learned my ABC's and first reader in South Carolina, but that's all," he added.

When Martin arrived in Detroit he went to work at the Detroit Steel and Casting Co. He resumed his education, "but when it started getting cold, I stayed home nights."

During the depression, he worked as a janitor in the First National Bank.

"I went to school at night for three winters during the depression, at Northwestern in 1944 and 1945, but stopped when I retired in 1951," Martin said.

Two years ago he decided to go back to school at Eastern High School's Adult Education Division because, "well, I wasn't doing anything at home... and I decided that I just wanted to get more schooling."

He said he plans to enter high school in the fall.

Interest Now At 8½%

Banks Raise Prime Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Major banks today raised the prime rate—the interest charged their biggest and best customers for loans—to a historic high of 8½ per cent from 7½ per cent, effective immediately.

An increase had been expected for some time. But the amount of the hike—a full one per cent—was surprising.

The first bank to increase the rate was Bankers Trust Co. of New York and it did so without making any comment on its reasons. Other New York banks, and then Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston banks quickly made the same move. Among the banks was Chase Manhattan and First National City of New York.

Reacting to the move, the Dow Jones industrial average dropped about 7 points shortly after the New York Stock Exchange opened.

When one bank increases the prime rate, others usually follow.

The prime rate is used in determining the interest rate charged most large corporations. Other rates, such as interest rates to consumers, are scaled upward from the prime rate.

The old rate of 7½ per cent was a record high when it was set on March 17. As recently as last Dec. 2 the rate was 6¼. A series of rate increases, usually one-fourth or one-half of a per cent at a time, had occurred between Dec. 2 and March.

The Federal Reserve Board has taken a number of steps to make it more expensive and more difficult for banks to borrow money. But the demand on banks for money to borrow has continued strong.

By raising the prime rate banks can afford to pay more for the money they borrow.

One banker said privately that "It's safe to say all of the big banks will sit down today and take a look at things after Bankers Trust's move."

House Fire Kills 12 In Family

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. — (AP) — A teen-age boy and girl watched horrified and helpless as their parents and 10 brothers and sisters perished in a fire which engulfed their $48-a-month home.

Their grandfather, who leaped through a bathroom window, was the only one in the house to escape the blaze.

The eight-room, frame residence was leveled in 45 minutes. Roger Bailey, 13, and his sister Susan, 15, whose father Charles was a county maintenance worker, were staying in a smaller structure behind the house when the fire struck about 1:30 a.m. Sunday. Sitting on a porch banister of an uncle's home later, the dazed boy could manage only a mumbled "yes" or "no" when asked about the fire.

Roger, wearing jeans, cowboy boots and open-necked shirt, smoked a cigarette as he was questioned.

His sister stayed inside her uncle's house, too upset to meet newsmen.

Roger said they had slept in the small building to make room for their grandfather.

Accidents Kill 18 On Weekend

By The Associated Press

All but two of 18 persons killed in traffic accidents in Michigan over the weekend were involved in one-vehicle accidents. Six of the victims died when their cars struck trees.

Four pedestrians were killed when they were struck by cars in separate incidents. Three persons died when their cars struck abutments and an overpass pillar and two others were fatally injured while riding on the hood of a car.

The Associated Press weekend traffic fatality count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

Thieu Admits Understanding In Peace Quest

MIDWAY ISLAND (AP) — President Nixon's first move to pare down the U.S. troop commitment in Vietnam—by 25,000 men as a start—was followed Sunday night by a strong affirmation of Washington-Saigon solidarity.

The harmony declaration came from President Nguyen Van Thieu in off-the-cuff remarks to newsmen following his summit meeting with Nixon on tiny, Midway Island.

Referring to advance speculation that there might be serious differences between the United States and the Saigon government over ways and means to promote the search for peace, Thieu said with emphasis: "This is not true... We have a very close understanding on that."

Back In Honolulu

Following five hours of talks, most of them with only one key adviser sitting beside each chief executive, Nixon returned to Honolulu for an overnight stay and Thieu flew back to Saigon.

Thieu expressed satisfaction with Nixon's decision to withdraw 25,000 American troops from his country, with all indications pointing to further withdrawals.

He called it "good news for the American people" and declared:

"We will do our best from now on to alleviate the burden of the American people."

It seemed evident the American delegation at Midway hoped the move would help defuse homefront criticism of Nixon's Vietnam policy.

Nothing Significant

But Sen. Eugene McCarthy, D-Minn., said he didn't "see that this is any significant indication of any program to try and resolve or end the war." And Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., commented: "I can't see where this represents any significant shift of American policy... I think we ought to begin taking them all out, and the faster the better, as far as I am concerned."

In his announcement, Nixon said:

"President Thieu informed me that the progress of the training program and the equipping program for South Vietnamese forces had been so successful that he could now recommend that the United States begin to replace U.S. combat forces with Vietnamese forces."

"As a consequence of the recommendation by the president and the assessment of our own commander in the field, I have decided to order the immediate redeployment from Vietnam of a division equivalent of approximately 25,000 men."

Start In 30 Days

"This troop replacement will begin within the next 30 days and will be completed by the end of August..."

"I will announce plans for further replacement as decisions are made."

Nixon said decisions of future withdrawals would hinge on the readiness of South Vietnamese forces, progress in the Paris peace talks and the level of enemy activity.

White House sources had said earlier they believed a troop withdrawal made from a position of strength would promote progress in Paris.

The two presidents also subscribed to a declaration, put forward in a joint statement at the end of the conference, that presumably was designed to help get the negotiations moving:

"The two presidents confirmed their convictions that the form of government under which the people of South Vietnam will live should be decided by the people themselves... They declared for their part they will respect any decision by the people of South Vietnam that is arrived at through free elections."

Common Resolve

At the same time, they "reiterated their common resolve to reject any attempt to impose on the Republic of Vietnam any system or program or any particular form of government."

Pentagon Uncertain Of Soviet Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Observation of a series of Soviet missile tests in the Pacific has left Pentagon experts uncertain whether the Russians now have multiple warheads which can be steered to separate targets.

American ships stationed in Russia's Pacific testing area have watched three or four extended range test shots of the giant SS9 intercontinental ballistic missile since April.

A study of telemetry and other data gathered by the observing U.S. vessels has been inconclusive as to whether the Soviets have multiple warheads which they fire in clusters, or whether they have mastered the technology of separately targeting each of the warheads, sources say.

Opinion thus is divided, although there is general agreement that at a minimum, the Soviets have been testing multiple warheads with sufficient dispersion to threaten knockout of individual Minuteman missile sites in the United States.

The United States has conducted at least 14 tests of Minuteman III land-based missiles and Poseidon submarine-launched missiles equipped with multiple independently targetable re-entry vehicles, called MIRV.

U.S. Air Force and Navy sources said these tests demonstrated impressive accuracy.

The U.S. test series began last August and is scheduled to run for two years before the first MIRV's can be mounted in combat readiness.

U.S. missile men are trying for accuracy that would drop Minuteman III and Poseidon warheads within a quarter of a mile of their targets.

Dr. John S. Foster, Pentagon Research and engineering chief, has indicated that he believes the Soviets will be able to achieve similar accuracy with their SS9s, each of which can carry a single warhead with the explosive force of 25 million tons of TNT or three separate warheads each with the blasting force of 5 million tons.

Robert Taylor Dies Of Cancer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Robert Taylor, leading man to many of the most glamorous stars in films during a career which spanned 35 years, is dead of cancer at 57.

The Nebraskan's dark good looks projected him to the top in 1935 opposite Irene Dunne in "Magnificent Obsession" and Greta Garbo in "Camille."

During his career he was also billed with such names as Jean Harlow, Ava Gardner, Elizabeth Taylor, Myrna Loy, Joan Crawford, Hedy Lamarr, Lana Turner, Katharine Hepburn and Greer Garson—usually in sentimental films designed to appeal to women.

He was married to another star, Barbara Stanwyck, for 11 years.

In his biggest years, around 1940 to 1950, Taylor was one of the screen's highest paid actors. But he said he never planned it that way.

"I went into acting because it was the only job offered to me at the time," he said once. "It's not my sole interest in life, being an actor, but it's the only one that made me any money."

Before he died of lung cancer Sunday, Taylor had been in and out of the hospital seven times in nine months. He spent the rest of the time at his 113-acre suburban ranch, where he raised quarter horses and chickens.

A spokesman said Taylor knew his disease, discovered late last year, was terminal. The 170-pound 6-footer quit smoking cigarettes in October before most of a lung was removed because of what was then described as a fungus infection called valley fever. He had been a three-pack-a-day man who said he "smoked since I was a kid."

Canceled Shows Awarded Emmys

NEW YORK (AP) — The annual Emmy Awards show, honoring television's best of the year, went off Sunday night without many perceptible hitches and with most of the statuettes winding up in deserving hands.

Most interesting and ironic notes of the evening came when awards were presented to programs and performers which had been canceled.

Carl Betz received his Emmy as best actor in a dramatic series for ABC's "Judd for the Defense," dropped after two seasons. "Get Smart" was named again as the best comedy series and Don Adams as the best actor in a comedy. The show was dropped by NBC and picked up by CBS. Hope Lange, best actress in a comedy series, appeared in "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir," which was dropped by NBC and picked up by ABC. "The Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour" was canceled by CBS but its writers won awards. And Barbara Bain, who is not working now with CBS's "Mission: Impossible," received an Emmy as best actress in a drama series—and in her acceptance speech did not try to hide her bitter feelings about "a couple of people" connected with the show.

Smothers

The program ran about 30 minutes beyond its scheduled 90 minutes. Bill Cosby in the Santa Monica Civic Auditorium and Merv Griffin in New York's Carnegie Hall were authoritative masters of ceremonies and never got their signals crossed.

Loudest applause of the evening—plus a standing ovation—was given the three astronauts of Apollo 10 for their television pictures from close to the moon. They received awards for themselves and others on Apollo missions.

NBC's "Teacher, Teacher" was named the best dramatic program and Billy Schulman, the retarded boy who portrayed one so vividly in the play, received a special plaque. Geraldine Page won the best actress award for ABC's "The Thanksgiving Visitor." Paul Scofield and Ann Calder-Marshall were honored for their performances in NBC's "The Male of the Species." J.P. Miller, who wrote "The People Next Door" for CBS, and the show's director received Emmys. The educational network's "NET Playhouse" received the statuette for the best drama series.

Laugh-In Wins

It was generally a lean year for television drama, but the programs and the actors rewarded certainly represented the cream of the crop. "Laugh-In" on NBC logically was chosen as the best variety series. It is TV's latest programming innovation and has affected the form and pace of other programs. While the Emmy show went along briskly, the basic problems remain: There are far too many categories and often too many people are milling around on the stage. Efforts to cut down this season by making some announcements of winners in advance helped the pace of the show, but, for the home viewer, it diminished the importance of the awards in the news categories.

The thank-you speeches were kept under pretty good control and in the total, the program was a thousand-fold improvement over last season's disaster.

Chatham, Trenary Lions Will Install Officers

Officers of the Chatham and Trenary Lions Clubs will be installed Thursday, June 12 at the Kiva Clubhouse.

Past Presidents are Urho Pokela and Wilho Pylvaninen.

William Bucholtz will be toastmaster, John Norlin and Robert Brant will give activities reports while Seiba Brown and George Hager will present awards. The Rev. Robert Haas will give the invocation and benediction.

Ruppe Requests $100 Minimum Social Security

WASHINGTON D. C. — Congressman Philip E. Ruppe (R-Mich) today called the $55 per month minimum primary Social Security payment "outrageously low" and introduced legislation to raise the minimum to $100.

"Anyone who believes you can subsist on less than $100 per month in this time of rising costs simply has his head in the sand," the northern Michigan representative noted.

The Ways and Means Committee intends to consider Social Security legislation after completing action on a tax reform program this session, he said, indicating that the goal of new Social Security legislation should be to protect senior citizens "against the crippling impact of inflation."

"Ruppe said he previously had introduced a bill to create automatic cost-of-living increases for recipients of Social Security and said, "If we were to raise the minimum payment to $100 and grant automatic cost-of-living increases, we would bring the entire program into the modern age."

Sweden Trip Termed Success

Mead Confident Of Building Cleanest Pulp Mill In U.S.

A Mead Corp. mission to Sweden to verify its progress in kraft pulpmill odor suppression was described today by O. C. Christiansen, Escanaba Paper Co. manager, as a success. He returned Saturday night.

Mead has announced plans to build a kraft pulpmill at its Escanaba Paper Co. plant as a basic part of its development as a publishing papers center.

World-famed anti-pollutionist Sigvard Lindberg of the Uddeholm Co. of Skoghall, Sweden, told Mead officials that his mill has reduced its odor to a level where there are no complaints. His report and those of other leaders in Swedish kraft pulpmill engineering were similar.

To Study Findings

They were reluctant to "guarantee" an absolutely odor-free mill at all times and under all conditions because mismanagement or malfunction can affect suppression, but all indicated their belief that a kraft pulpmill acceptable to its site city can be built today using this newest technology.

The progress in Scandinavia, which, like America, is under increasing pressures to end pollution, is only one factor in Mead's plans for its Escanaba pulpmill. Babcock & Wilcox, the manufacturers, have guaranteed purity of performance by the recovery boiler — heart of the kraft mill system — which goes beyond the European performances.

The findings in the visits to mills at Honefuss, Norway, and Gavle, Sundsvall, Iggesund and Skoghall, Sweden, will be analyzed and processed in Mead's planning for its Escanaba pulpmill.

Christiansen explained that

The kraft process is being used here, he said, because its pulp provides papers of good opacity and strength, qualities of high merit as Mead moves to excel in lightweight publishing papers to help publishers cope with rising mailing costs, which now equal the costs of publishing.

The kraft process is also favored because it will make possible use of virtually all species of trees for pulping, a need to assure the Escanaba mill's wood supply from the Upper Peninsula as the mill moves from consumption of 35,000 cords a year to more than 300,000 cords.

A kraft pulpmill is a key to Escanaba's retention of its papermaking and growth in this highly competitive industry, said Christiansen. The present mill production is being changed to match market changes, with rebuilding of No. 1 paper machine to make a more marketable paper and the No. 3 machine now being erected at the mill will introduce a new lightweight publishing paper.

Henry Caldwell, Mead engineer who heads planning for the pulpmill and who was in the Scandinavian tour party, which was headed by Robert Arvid, vice president in charge of Mead Papers, is studying the facilities which will produce the best results at the new mill. Mead planners are confident they can create the cleanest kraft mill in the nation.

Steers Obese Just Like People

EAST LANSING (AP) — Because a steer had either a tendency toward chubbiness or ate too much, the steak you buy today may be a little fatty.

"It's like with people," explains Dr. Terry Greathouse, a Michigan State University professor of animal husbandry.

"Some people are obese because of genetic characteristics and some people just eat too much."

The genetic makeup of beef cattle is determined by purebred producers, the people who develop bulls to be sold to commercial ranchers. The ranchers, in turn, produce feeder calves which become the beefsteaks.

"In some cases," Greathouse explains, "the bulls weren't bred to produce as lean meat as possible. Thus you get a higher percentage of fat with the lean red muscle."

Carcass Traits

Dr. William T. Magee, professor of animal husbandry, has been working since 1958 on an experiment in which beef bulls have been selected on the basis of their carcass traits to breed tenderness and leanness into succeeding generations of cattle.

"In other cases," Greathouse says, "the beef cattle probably were fed to too heavy a final market weight."

That, he says, could be because a producer tried to outguess the market — by holding feeder calves from market until the price went up—or because the steer put on more fat than the producer expected.

"It's always kind of difficult to determine how much external fat there is on a carcass," Greathouse says. "It's like looking at a bushel of apples."

"You don't know if the ones on top are like the ones on the bottom."

Need Some Fat

Cattle need a certain amount of fat, Greathouse says. "There must be enough external fat on the carcass so we get proper aging," he says. "If there isn't any fat, the carcass becomes extremely dry and loses moisture."

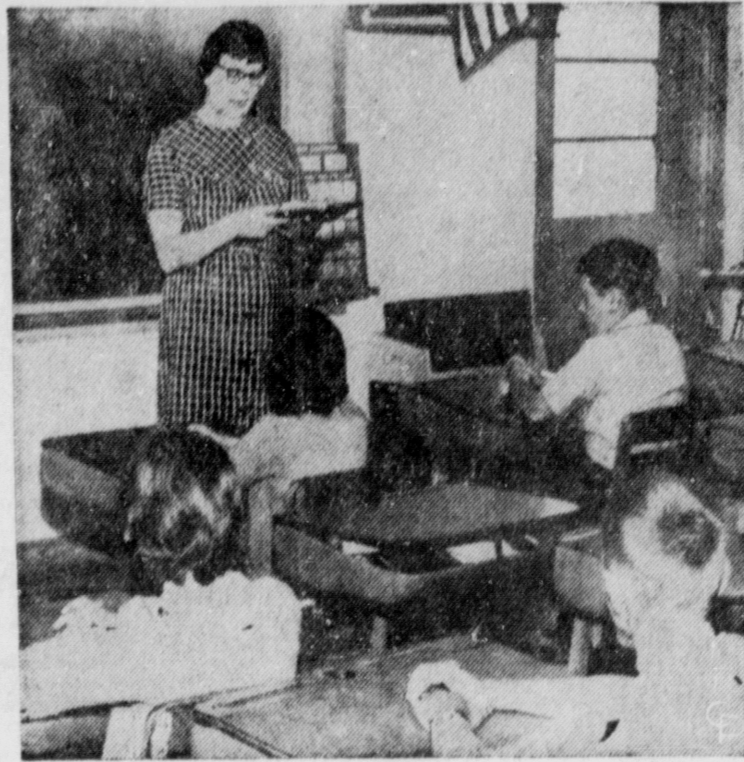

Feeder calves are usually born in the spring, he says, and are weaned about seven months later, when they weigh 400 - 500 pounds.

They then are moved to a feed lot where they get a "finishing ration."

"The calves feed for about a year," Greathouse says, "on a ration of corn silage and some additional corn—about one per cent of the body weight."

The calf's ration also is supplemented with vitamins and minerals.

It takes about a ton of corn silage, the chopped stalk and leaves, to put on 100 pounds of body weight, Greathouse says. Thus a feeder calf that goes from 400 pounds to 1,000 pounds—the "ballpark average" market weight for such an animal—will have consumed about six tons of corn silage from weaning to slaughter.

TOWNSPEOPLE DO NOT OBJECT — Miss Pearl Rhodes, fifth and sixth grade teacher at the elementary school in Lyden, Mass., reads the 100th Psalm to her students after the school board in the mountain town of 345 residents voted to reinstate a non-denominational prayer or reading of passages from the Bible, and recitation of the Lord's Prayer. There was no objection from the townspeople.

Rotary Day Camp Staff Is Named

Rotary Camp Harstad will open Monday, June 16, for an eight week camping program with the camp staff complete, it is announced by Henry Wylie, camp director.

Mrs. Oliver Brazeau, 1101 3rd Ave. S., who has cooked for the Camp Harstad children for 10 years, will be in charge of the food services at Camp Harstad again this summer.

Jean Finlan, 1424 Minneapolis Ave., Gladstone, who will be a sophomore at St. Norbert's College next fall will be a senior counselor. This is Jean's third summer at Camp Harstad.

Ann Schmidt, 1214 Stephenson Ave., Escanaba, will be spending her third summer as a senior counselor at Camp Harstad. Ann will be a freshman at Bay de Noc Community College next fall.

Janice Ferguson, Ford River Road, will be a junior counselor. This will be her first summer at Camp Harstad. She is enrolled as a freshman at Bay de Noc Community College next September.

Bay de Noc Community College is cooperating with the Rotary Camp Harstad program by placing the three counselors on the College Work Study Program this summer.

Mike Olson, 1407 S. 14th St., will be a junior counselor. Mike will be a junior at Escanaba Area High School next fall and this is his first summer at the children's camp.

Mrs. Donald Goulais, director of Practical Nursing Services at Bay de Noc Community College, is assigning a practical nursing student to Rotary Camp Harstad each week this summer.

Wylie, 620 S. 9th St., conservation instructor and track coach at Escanaba Area High School, has had eight years summer camp experience of which the last four have been as assistant director of Rotary Camp Harstad. He will direct the camp this summer.

Letters of invitation to Camp Harstad have been mailed to the parents of 38 children inviting them to attend camp this summer and all cards, either accepting or not, should be returned promptly.

The Department of Social Services for the State of Michigan requires that each child be checked for communicable diseases by a physician and have a TB skin test before attending camp. All camp employees must also show evidence of a negative TB skin test.

Rotary Camp Harstad has again been licensed by the Department of Social Services for the State of Michigan to operate as a day camp for this summer.

Moon Shot

Less than six weeks from now, American astronauts will attempt the first manned landing on the moon, a satellite without water or oxygen some 238,000 miles from the surface of the earth.

The manned landing attempt by the crew of Apollo 11 will climax a space effort that started over seven years ago with the first orbital flight of John Glenn.

Remember John Glenn, the nation's first astronaut?

His name became a "household" word, a national hero who has since made one attempt to capitalize on the publicity with a run at a Senatorial seat in Ohio. Glenn withdrew from the race when he was injured in a bathtub fall, disrupting his campaign, but in recent weeks there has been serious speculation that he will try again to win a seat in the U. S. Senate.

Since Glenn flew that historic first mission for the United States, the American space program has met with great success and on the latest and most dangerous mission two astronauts flew the lunar landing module (LEM) to within 47,000 feet of the moon's surface.

Name the two astronauts?

The two men were Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan.

How many remembered?

The lack of notoriety for Stafford and Cernan is an indication of how the success of the space program in flying men around the earth and the moon has changed the American mind toward space travel.

Yet, the dangers still exist in this infant of explorations.

Apollo 10 Commander Stafford told a news conference Saturday at Houston's Manned Spacecraft Center that the lunar landing module he and Cernan flew to within 10 miles of the moon's surface was nearly four miles off course and had they been scheduled to make a lunar landing it might not have been possible.

"We would have had to turn an awful lot of fuel to get back on target," Stafford said. "It would have been a rough job."

Despite the problem, Stafford said he saw no delay in the plans for a moon landing by astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin (Buzz) Aldrin next month. "That's what we flew for — to find the unknowns that will better pave the way for the Apollo 11 crew to land," he said.

The four-mile error, however, illustrates anew that the United States is still learning in the field of space exploration and best proceed with caution flags flying.

Apollo 11 may, indeed, land two men on the moon, but the era of space exploration is just beginning.

And at this point, there must not be an error.

Bible Reading

In 1966, three years after the U. S. Supreme Court outlawed Bible reading and other religious proceedings in the public schools, nearly 13 per cent of the nation's schools (and 50 per cent of those in the South) were continuing the practice, according to one investigator.

In the three years since 1966, the percentage has, if anything, increased. Many schools never abandoned their traditional practices, but lately others have resumed them in direct defiance of the court's ruling.

One such is the public school in Clairton, Pa., south of Pittsburgh, where the school board's decision to reinstitute daily prayer and Bible reading has sparked similar revolts in communities across the state.

The Supreme Court hanned prescribed devotional services, whether or not attendance was compulsory for pupils. In Clairton, they are both prescribed and compulsory.

"In a time of turmoil in the country, our parents think that loss of the Bible reading in school has contributed to the deterioration of the United States," explains Clairton school superintendent, Dr. Robert LaFrankie, whose advice against the action was ignored by the school board and PTA.

"This is not only an act of defiance," says LaFrankie, "it is an attempt to survive."

Put in those terms, the back-to-the-Bible movement in Pennsylvania is understandable, although it flies in the face of the fact that some of the greatest of the Founding Fathers were not religious men in the formal sense and that outside the East and South, Bible reading was never a widespread practice in schools.

What is not so understandable is why so few schools, in any state, have taken up the great challenge offered by the court's ruling:

They may not teach religion but they may teach about religion; they may not force children to listen to the Bible being read but they may show them how the Bible — and the Koran and the Torah and so on — came to be; they may not inculcate generalized moral precepts through rote recitation but they may inquire how these precepts arose in the course of human history and were expressed in the different religions and how they have influenced the development of civilization.

It is easy to have a teacher get up and read a few verses of Scripture. It is difficult — and expensive — to devise a course of religious study and fit it into an already crowded curriculum.

But parents delude themselves, and in the end shirk their own responsibilities, if they think that hearing the Bible read for a few minutes in school five days a week will ever instill morality in a child who does not receive supplementary instruction in good citizenship in every other area of his daily life.

Opening lead—queen of diamonds.

Here is an extraordinary hand. It appears in "Spotlight on Card Play", by Robert Darvas and Paul Lukacs, a book that illustrates the type of thinking that lies behind good card play.

Declarer was the Hungarian star, Geza Ottlik. The contract was four hearts and West led a diamond.

It is not easy to make ten tricks, even with 52 cards on view. Apparently declarer needs a 3-3 trump break as well as a 3-3 division in one of the black suits in order to establish a tenth trick.

It would seem that South can make only five trump tricks and two sets of A-Ks. But Geza Ottlik scored ten tricks by adopting a highly ingenious line of play that made him a favorite for the contract.

He elected to play for six trump tricks instead of the obvious five, and accomplished his goal in the following manner:

After ruffing the diamond lead, he entered dummy with a spade and ruffed a second diamond. He repeated the operation by returning to dummy with a spade and ruffing a third diamond.

Then he played a club to the king, ruffed another diamond, and continued with a club to the ace to ruff dummy's last diamond with his last trump.

By this time, Geza Ottlik had scored nine tricks, consisting of five ruffs in his hand and both A-Ks in dummy. Dummy still had the 9-8 of hearts left and was bound to score a tenth trick with one of them.

The maneuver described here is known as dummy reversal, and is a form of play which is hard to recognize even under ordinary circumstances. Of course, it is infinitely more difficult to spot when dummy has only two trumps and declarer has five.

No other method of play is as promising as this one, nor, in the actual hand, does any other method succeed.

Guard Convoys To Clog Highways

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway Department has warned Michigan motorists that slow moving National Guard convoys from Ohio and Indiana will be clogging state highways over the June 14-15 and June 28-29 weekends.

The convoys will be on the way to and from Camp Grayling in north central Lower Michigan. Heavy artillery units will be included in the convoys, which will travel at an average speed of 35 miles an hour.

The department said highways to be used will include U.S. 27, U.S. 31, U.S. 127, U.S. 131, M 21, M 60, M 72, M 100, interstates 96, 75 and 94 and county highway 543 between I 94 and M 21.

Michigan units of the National Guard will not be moving to camp until mid-July.

Drinking Pedestrian Candidate For Death

ANN ARBOR—The pedestrian, the "most unprepared element in traffic," accounts for 18 per cent of the nation's 50,000-plus traffic fatalities each year.

A report just published by the University of Michigan Highway Safety Research Institute reveals the characteristics of persons most involved and analyzes when, where, and how they get killed.

The report, by anatomy Prof. Donald F. Huelke, U-M accident investigator, shows pedestrian accidents most likely to occur at night in clear weather, under artificial light, and on a dry, straight, asphalt road.

But this is a statistical element. Numerous other such accidents occurred in broad daylight, at intersections, and on a variety of road surfaces.

Alcohol Kills

Huelke studied 286 pedestrian fatalities in Detroit and suburban Wayne County, Mich. He found that 37 per cent (106 victims) were crossing a street outside a crosswalk or in the middle of the block. An additional 36 per cent (102) were crossing at intersections, however. The remaining 27 per cent were standing or walking in the roadway.

Alcohol was the single factor most commonly associated with victims. Medical examinations showed that of the 196 pedestrian victims over 12 years old who were tested for alcohol, 61 per cent had been drinking—and half of those showed over .10 per cent of alcohol in the blood, the federal standard for intoxication. (Other studies have found that as many as three-fourths of the pedestrians killed had been drinking.)

Just over half of those killed were dead at the scene, and another third died within 24 hours of the accident.

The most common fatal blows were to the head — in 55 per cent (187) of the victims. Neck or chest injuries were next most frequent (42 per cent), followed by abdominal injuries (20 per cent) and pelvic injuries (5 per cent).

Huelke said his data show that "it appears in many instances the head is injured when the pedestrian strikes the roadway rather than by contact with the car."

He adds: "The relative high frequency of neck fractures (found in 42 per cent of 187 victims) is surprising."

December Worst Month
When do pedestrian accidents most frequently occur? December is the most dangerous month, with 13 per cent of the accidents. Rates for other months ranged between 6 and 10 per cent. During the week, one-third of the pedestrian accidents occur on Friday and Saturday. During the day, the frequency rises gradually to a peak at 3 p. m., but the rate between 7 and 9 p. m. is double that of any other two-hour period.

More pedestrians are killed between 6 and 9 in the evening than during any other three-hour period.

Half of children under 11 in Huelke's study were struck between 4 and 7 p. m.

The age range and frequency of involvement of the victims was as follows:

Fifty-three of the 286 victims in Huelke's study were 71 to 80 years old, and 49 were 81 to 90. There were 20 victims over 91. These three groups of older persons made up more than 40 per cent of the victims.

There were 42 youngsters under 11 years of age; 31 between 11 and 20; 13 between 21 and 30; 17 between 31 and 40; 23 between 41 and 50, and 38 between 51 and 60.

Design Not Problem

Noting that fatal injuries have sometimes been attributed to features of the vehicle, Huelke said, "such specific items could not be identified in this study."

"From police photographs, it is obvious that the pedestrians had contact not only with the front of the car but also at times the top of the hood, windshield, and parts of the windshield frame. In addition, striking the road surface should be considered one of the prime sources of fatal injuries."

The high frequency of deaths due to the secondary impact on the road surface suggests that change in the exterior detail of vehicles cannot be expected to be a high-payoff area for the reduction of pedestrian fatalities, Huelke said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

What is taller at breakfast and shorter at dinner? Well, for one thing, you are. Because of spinal compression, you are probably a full inch lower in altitude in the evening than when you awoke in the morning bright.

Poverty afflicts one out of three Americans over the high hill of 65.

Eskimo women, who habitually breast-feed their babies, have the lowest rate of breast cancer in the world. Canadian scientists are inclined to believe that the one fact is related to the other.

Camping

Camping is now a $1.5-billion-a-year business in the United States. During 1969, the National Geographic Society estimates, some 40 million people will "pitch a tent, park a trailer, or unroll a sleeping bag" at the nation's half-million campsites.

What hurts can sometimes help. Cheddar cheese, under some circumstances, has been known to cause high blood pressure. The culpable ingredient, tyramine, has been isolated and found useful in treating low blood pressure.

Quotable notables: "Love is an act of endless forgiveness, a tender look which becomes a habit."—Peter Ustinov.

Prevent Yellowing

Are you a victim of "crisis flight"? That is a new medical term for people who react to an emergency by simply fleeing to somewhere—anywhere—else. The Travelers Aid Society says it tends to 2,000 such unhappy wanderers each year in Washington, D.C., alone.

Household hint: To prevent linen from turning yellow when stored, place it between layers of dark tissue paper.

A threat of suicide, medical authorities warn, should never be regarded idly. They say that 80 per cent of people who do kill themselves have either tried to before or threatened to do so.

Despite our current prosperity, life seems to be getting more dangerous for our young people. The National Safety Council reports that in 1968 accidents among children 5 to 14 years old increased nearly 12 per cent and those among persons 15 to 24 years old rose about nine per cent.

Worth remembering: "The smallest good deed is better than the grandest good intention."

It was Sir Jacob Astley who made this commonsense prayer: "Lord, I shall be very busy this day and may forget Thee; but please, dear God, don't forget about me."

Warn Boaters On Sewage Tank

LANSING (AP) — The State Department of Natural Resources has issued a warning to Michigan boaters with onboard toilet facilities.

If they venture into Ontario waters, the commission said, their craft must be equipped with holding tanks or other pollution control devices approved by the province's water resources commission.

Ontario has tightened boat toilet regulations so no sewage may be discharged into its waters.

Ann Landers

Anticipating Kiss, She Removes Specs

Dear Ann Landers: Who gave you a license to play God? How can you be sure your advice is always right? Well, it isn't and I know because I am one of your victims.

Three years ago, when I was 16, I became pregnant. My boyfriend was 18. When I told Mickey he was carrying his child, he left town. He didn't say where he was going—he just left. My mother had died the year before and I hated my stepfather. I was scared to death and felt all alone when I wrote to you for advice. You suggested the Florence Crittenton home and closed by saying, "Give the baby up for adoption, then get back in school and graduate." I took your advice and I'll never forgive myself.

Mickey showed up last week and wanted to see his child. When I told him what I had done he broke down and cried like a baby. He said he had come back to marry me but he hated the sight of me because I gave away his child. He said I had no right to do that and he would never forgive me.

You have ruined my life, Ann Landers. On account of you I gave away my baby and I lost a chance to marry a wonderful boy.—Nellie

Dear Nellie: The advice I gave you was good advice at the time. I'd give it again. The best solution for a 16-year-old pregnant girl whose boyfriend takes a hike is to give up her child for adoption. The chances of the boy returning and offering marriage are mighty slim.

As for your having lost a chance to marry a "wonderful boy"—I see nothing wonderful about a heel who disappears and leaves his pregnant girlfriend to face the future alone.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm going to marry a wonderful man whose last name is the same as a notorious crook. It so happens that the crook is a distant relative of my fiancé's father—like a third cousin. The wedding is in August and several of my out-of-town relatives are coming in for the occasion. I am certain they will ask me if my husband is related to the hoodlum. What shall I say?—Gee Gee

Dear G: Say, "Yes, He's a cousin." Nobody will believe it.

Dear Ann Landers: I am an 18-year-old girl who is ashamed to be asking this question, but I do need an answer.

When a young man takes me to the door to say good-night (a very special young man, of course), would it be too obvious if I removed my glasses in anticipation of a good-night kiss? I would die on the spot if I took off my glasses and he didn't kiss me. Please answer in the paper. My mother never looks to see to whom a letter is addressed.

Stabs Two Men Over $5 Loan

ROMULUS (AP)—A 47-year-old Detroit man was arraigned Sunday in district court on a charge of first degree murder in the stabbing deaths of two Romulus Township men.

sheriff's deputies described as an argument over a $5 loan during a card game, were Luther Watson, 46, and Eugene McCarter, 30.

Deputies said the man charged in the slayings is "tentatively known as Ben Oakley, also known as William Oakley" of Detroit.

Oakley stood mute to the charge before Judge George Belanger. He was remanded to the Wayne County jail without bail and examination was set for June 18.

Wood Duck To Hatch 37 Eggs

HOLLY (AP)—Would you believe one duck blissfully incubating 37 eggs?

That's what Dick Elden, game habitat biologist for the Department of Natural Resources, found while recently checking wood duck nesting houses erected last winter by members of the Oakland Duck Hunters Club.

"It's what we call a dump nest," explained Elden, who works out of the Holly recreation area east of here.

"A hen will drop in, lay some eggs and move on. Any woodie nest we find with over 12 or 13 eggs — normal-sized clutch — is considered a dump nest."

One hen eventually takes up permanent residence, said the biologist. Sometimes two will occupy the same box.

Raining Ducklings

"If all 37 eggs hatched," commented Howard Greene, district game supervisor for the DNR's Pontiac Lake office, "the air would be raining ducklings when they hopped out of that box."

However, Greene and Elden don't expect this to happen. "We have no way of knowing how many will hatch," said Greene.

Nesting boxes have been erected on poles or attached to the trunks of trees in flooded forest areas by interested sportsmen and other groups for many years in an attempt to help shore up a shaky population of wood ducks.

Breeding numbers became so low during the 1940s that woodies were protected from hunting. In recent years a strong enough comeback has been noted to allow limited gunning.

Most Beautiful

The multicolored drake is often called the most beautiful duck in the world. He is probably the most mounted waterfowl east of the Mississippi where woodie numbers are the greatest.

Like the blue-wing teal, woodies don't stick around long in the fall. They migrate south within a week after duck season opens.

Unlike the teal which prefers a shoreline nest, woodies set up housekeeping in hollow trees. That's why they are limited in number and why wood duck nesting houses have been so successful, according to Greene.

"They prefer brushy swamplands with waterholes and flooded hardwood timberland," said Greene. "This type of habitat is restricted in Michigan and other states.

"Because of this, it would be very easy for woodies to be overshot."

Mounting

In addition to being much sought after for mounting, the drake's plumage is coveted by fly-tiers. Both sexes make excellent table fare.

How successful are the wood duck nesting boxes?

"It depends on where they are placed," said Elden. "The better the habitat, the higher the percentage of use."

As an example he cites an eight-acre pond in the Bald Mountain recreation area where duck club members placed 10 of the 90 boxes they erected in Oakland County.

"There are nine wood duck nests," reported Elden, "and the other box is being used by a hooded merganser." The woodie nests contained 187 eggs, including the one with 37.

Many Bills In Coffers

Legislature Works To Meet Deadline

LANSING (AP) — If the Michigan Legislature is to do anything this session about liberalizing abortion law, setting a formula for the $100 million recreation bond, permitting dog racing or reforming insurance law, it must be done this week.

Five months have passed since the 75th Legislature began drafting bills, revising them, holding hearings, and jockeying for support.

Now, time is beginning to run out and attitudes are hardening. The House several times has revised its deadlines — backward. But each postponement has required Senate concurrence, and the upper chamber no longer is willing to delay its own work to keep in step with the House.

Facing a lighter workload, the Senate may hold crash sessions today and Tuesday to clear its calendar of its own bills, then turn its attention to House-passed budget bills. Those must be passed by June 30 — end of this fiscal year.

Drop 300 Bills

The lower chamber, however, is making no attempt to clear 300 bills by Tuesday. House leaders plan six-hour sessions from morning to late at night all week. Some observers say Saturday's dawn might find representatives still working.

Deadline pressure already has produced side effects. Legislators are turning to political sniping to mask their inaction and frustration.

The other party is everybody's favorite target. "I'm ready to get down to work. But those guys on the other side of the aisle..." goes a common remark.

Gov. William Milliken also has been something of a whipping boy, surprising since Republicans have joined the complaining.

House Majority Leader Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, says Milliken "hasn't been as close to the Legislature as Gov. (George) Romney was. He doesn't discuss his position on things as much."

Cities Parochial

Waldron cited the parochial controversy as an example.

Milliken has maintained his Special Education Committee will consider state aid to nonpublic education only if the Legislature clearly asks it.

Yet, Milliken's lieutenants made a late-hour effort to work with House parochial backers but failed to stave off eventual defeat.

Waldron, who opposes parochial aid partly on constitutional grounds, maintains, "I see no reason why any special study commission couldn't just consider it. It's already been studied."

Democratic opponents speak more bluntly of the governor. Senate Minority Leader Sander Levin, D-Berkley, calls Milliken's leadership a "vacuum." Noting the slim but conflicting party majorities in each chamber, Levin says Milliken seems bent "more on constructive statements than on passing constructive bills. There comes a time to roll up your sleeves and take it on the chin if you have to," Levin says.

Recreation Bill

Some Republican senators privately agree.

Many of one chamber's bills mirror those of the other. The house recently rejected dog racing, but the Senate has before it a measure to allow thoroughbred and harness racing in the winter, and a rush could be made to attach a dog-racing amendment to that.

Recreation bills abound.

Milliken's endorsement early in March of a 30-30-40 formula for distribution of the $100 million bond between the cities, the state and high-density counties produced a storm of opposition. Legislators said they made irrevocable commitments to keep 70 per cent of the fund in state hands.

As a result, three bills are awaiting initial action. Each proposes a different formula: 70-30; 30-30-40; and a modified bill that may be viewed as either 70-30 or 50-50.

The latter formula, drafted in the House Conservation Committee by Reps. Thomas Anderson, D-Southgate, Raymond Smit, R-Ann Arbor, and Warren Goemaere, D-Roseville, is aimed at mollifying all parties.

New Tactic

It would allocate $70 million to the State Natural Resources

Department, but stipulates $20 million be used for urban-based recreation projects.

While the depth of bipartisan effort on that measure suggests it is the likely candidate for passage, both House and Senate have 70-30 bills available — containing the language legislators have said they've promised their constituents.

But as the time for decision draws near, the House has turned to a new tactic. To avoid deadline death for their pet bills, legislators are withdrawing them from the firing line and rescheduling them for September consideration.

That clears the calendar — and the air — for now. But it could mean a handy political barrier that Milliken will have to cross this fall in trying to turn the Legislature's attention to his education recommendations.

A BIG JUMP AHEAD in the "race" for a faster-than-sound airliner is the Soviet with this display of the giant TU-144 in Moscow. The needle-nose craft is the world's first, has been test-flown and is in assembly line production. It will be ready for sale in two years. The needle-nose is an up-and-down droop snoot to help the pilots in flying and landing. The U.S. supersonic airliner still is on the drawing boards.

Big Mac's Rate Bigger Bargain

SAULT STE. MARIE (AP) — It costs $1.50 to cross the Mackinac Bridge by car one-way between Michigan's two peninsulas.

It costs $1.50 to cross the International Bridge connecting Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., with Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

But somehow it seems the crossing of the Big Mac is the bigger bargain.

The past Memorial Day weekend 40 per cent more cars crossed the Mackinac Bridge than during the 1968 holiday. The bridge had a $3.75 rate until this year. But the toll at the $20 million International Bridge went up 25 cents last November to help meet bond payments and only 37 more cars went over the bridge the past Memorial holiday compared with 1968.

Meanwhile, Mayor John Harrington of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., predicts tourism in his area will drop 10 per cent because of the 25-cent hike. Fellow mayor John Rhodes from the Soo's sister city in Ontario voices the same opinion.

The two mayors led protest delegations which conferred last week on the situation with James Kellogg, Gov. Milliken's executive assistant, and Joseph V. Cook, of the state commerce department.

Ontario Atty. Gen. A. A. Wishart says a meeting on the toll increase will be held June 19 in Toronto.

The bridge is a two-mile span over the Soo Locks and St. Marys River which links U.S. Interstate 75 and the Trans-Canada highway.

Ontario officials estimate that tourists crossing this bridge alone spend $20 million a year in Canada. One Michigan merchant said his Canadian business was down 40 per cent since the toll hike.

Judge To Decide August's Fate

MASON (AP) — A judge rules today on whether to allow the jury to decide the fate of a suspended white policeman accused of murdering a Negro youth during Detroit's 1967 racial riot.

Circuit Judge William Beer recessed for the weekend to consider a defense motion for a directed verdict of acquittal for Ronald August, 30, charged with first-degree murder in the death of 19-year-old Aubrey Pollard.

Pollard and two other black teenagers were killed July 26, 1967, at the Algiers Motel, which police and National Guardsmen raided in a search for reported snipers.

If the acquittal motion is denied as expected, the judge may reduce the charge from first-degree murder to second-degree or manslaughter, with the all-white jury beginning deliberations today or Tuesday.

The jury of 13 women and one man, which heard four weeks of testimony, returns Monday afternoon after the judge has made his decision.

Under Michigan law, a first-degree murder conviction carries a mandatory life sentence without parole, second-degree murder calls for any term up to life imprisonment and manslaughter a maximum of 15 years.

In making their motion, defense attorneys argued that the prosecution had failed to establish either premeditation or malice in the killing.

The prosecutor pointed out that the judge had denied a similar acquittal motion after the prosecution had rested its case and contended that nothing was changed by defense testimony.

In his earlier denial, Judge Beer said an issue had been established for the jury to decide.

August took the witness stand last week to give his version of what happened at the motel, located in Detroit's inner city. He said he killed Pollard in self-defense after the youth lunged at him and struggled over the shotgun.

The suspended policeman was one of six defense witnesses, the others testifying to August's reputation for truthfulness, peacefulness and citizenship.

Five Drown Over Weekend

By The Associated Press
Thirty-one-year-old John Mitchell of Ferndale became the fifth person to drown in Michigan over the weekend when his boat capsized at the Tittabawassee River in Gladwin County Sunday.

Other victims:
Arthur Wardlow, 23, of Flint, who fell backwards into Kearsley Lake while fishing Saturday. A companion tried unsuccessfully to save him.

Joseph Panick Jr., 6, of Iron River, who was playing on the bank of the Iron River near his home and slipped into the water.

Robert A. Koch, 14, of Niles, who was swimming at Barron Lake in Cass County Saturday. Peter Noodhof, 47, of Muskegon, who fell off the dock while fishing at High Tower Lake in Oceana County Saturday.

Sardinia is about the same size as New Hampshire but has more than twice the population, 1,413,000.

Demos Work To Block State Patronage Probe

LANSING (AP)—High Democratic officials reportedly are working behind the scenes to block passage of a resolution calling for an investigation of state patronage jobs.

The pressure from the top reportedly includes threats to launch a well-financed effort in the Democratic primary next year to oust Rep. Dale Kildee, D-Flint, the chief sponsor of the resolution.

"There's no question but what the threats were authentic and made against him," said Rep. Edward Suski, also a Flint Democrat.

Kildee declines to comment on the issue.

But ever since Kildee introduced his resolution, sources said, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, Secretary of State James Hare and State Chairman James McNeely reportedly have tried to persuade Kildee to drop the effort to investigate patronage jobs.

License Managers

Both Kelley and Hare are able to fill scores of patronage positions.

Kelley's office recommends numerous public administrators in counties across the state to handle estates where the relatives are unknown or live in foreign countries.

In addition, Kelley appoints attorneys to handle the motor vehicle accident claims program valued at an estimated $750,000 in 1969-70. He also can name lawyers to handle highway acquisition and property condemnation proceedings.

Hare names 215 license plate fee branch managers who receive 30 cents for each plate sold.

Lose Funds

McNeely reportedly is concerned for fear that the party will lose funds if the patronage system is discontinued.

"Why is there tremendous concern by these people if there's nothing afoot," asks Suski, a co-sponsor of the resolution. "This is merely to create a study committee to see if there is need for reform."

"This pressure only makes me more determined to battle for passage of the resolution," Suski said.

The Flint representative added that he would move Wednesday for the House Policy Committee to vote favorably on the resolution and report it to the House with the recommendation that it pass.

Drop Support

Further pressure was reportedly applied against the two Flint representatives by the Genesee County Democratic Committee.

In action last week, they reportedly urged the two representatives to drop their support of the resolution.

"This action emanated from Hare's office in view of the fact that many of Hare's liaison people were present at the meeting," Suski said.

"I feel adamant that the system should be changed and that patronage in and of itself is wrong," Suski said.

The committee would have subpoena power to review records and call witnesses. It would report its findings to the 1970 Legislature.

Claire Schaefer Bride Of Douglas F. Young

Claire Lynne Schaefer of Escanaba became the bride of Douglas Frank Young during a double ring ceremony performed Saturday, May 31 at the Salem Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The Rev. John J. Wendland officiated at the service at 4 p.m. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Schaefer of Escanaba and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Young of 6512 U.S. 41 S., Marquette.

Lace Gown
Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length A-line gown of Alencon lace over taffeta with a matching lace train forming at the sides of the gown.

Her fingertip veil was secured by a matching Alencon lace over taffeta bow and she carried a crescent shaped bouquet of daisies and yellow roses.

Mrs. Susan J. Johns of Minneapolis, Minn., sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Mrs. Bonnie J. King and Mary V. Young, sister of the bridegroom, bridesmaids. Dressed in identical aqua sheath gowns with bow headpieces, they carried crescent formations of daisies with aqua centers.

Mothers' Attire
The mother of the bride chose an aqua A-line sheath dress with white accessories and Mrs. Young selected an aqua three piece suit also with white accessories. Both mothers wore presented corsages of sweetheart roses and carnations.

Mrs. Frank Young of Marquette and Mrs. Clara M. Schaefer of Marinette, Wis., grandmothers of the couple, were also presented corsages.

Reception

A reception for 130 guests was held at Marco's Starlite Room following the ceremony. The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner Friday evening at the Chicken Shack.

The new Mrs. Young is a 1965 graduate of Escanaba Area High School and Northern Michigan University Nursing Education. She was employed on the St. Francis Hospital staff prior to her marriage.

Mr. Young is a 1964 graduate of Marquette Graveret High School and is presently employed with Fischer Chevrolet of Ishpeming.

The newlyweds are now at home at 753 Perk St. in Ishpeming.

Births

ANDERSON—Mr. and Mrs. Donald Anderson of Brookfield, Wis., are the parents of a son, their first child, born Sunday, June 8. The infant weighed 7 pounds at birth and has been named Jeffrey Donald. The mother is the former Virginia Barnes and Mr. Anderson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Mandy Anderson of Escanaba.

PSA Auxiliary Sets Deadline On Queen Contest

The PSA Auxiliary has announced a June 15 deadline for entries in their queen contest. All applications are to be mailed to P.O. Box 51, Escanaba.

Applications are still available at Ernie's Party Store, and the Dehlin Drug Store in Gladstone. Girls, age 17 to 21 or high school seniors, are eligible to compete.

The crowning will take place at the July 4th championship races and several prizes will be awarded. The queen will represent the Peninsula Stock Car Association at various activities throughout the year.

(Lee's Studio)

Jane Marie Johnson, R. L. Robitaille Wed

St. Joseph's Church was the setting Saturday, May 24 for the wedding of Jane Marie Johnson of Rapid River and Richard Louis Robitaille of Escanaba.

The Rev. Isidore Walter officiated at the 1 p.m. double ring nuptials for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Johnson of Rte. 2 Rapid River and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Robitaille of 625 N. 18th St. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Larry Johnson.

Honor attendants for the couple were Judy Johnson of Milwaukee, sister of the bride and Terry Guay of Escanaba. Seating the guests were Danny Robitaille of Escanaba, Douglas Johnson and Chester Johnson, both of Rte. 2, Rapid River.

Lace, Organza

The bride chose for her wedding a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and organza styled with a standup collar, long tapered sleeves and a detachable chapel length train.

A forward headpiece of Alencon lace petals and flowers trimmed with pearl loops secured her elbow length triple tiered veil of silk illusion and she carried a bouquet of white carnations, daisies and yellow roses.

Nile Green

The honor maid wore a floor length sleeveless gown of Nile green chiffon over taffeta with matching accessories. A forward headpiece of petals and loops in matching Maline completed her attire and she carried a bouquet of yellow mums, carnations and roses.

Mothers' Attire

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Johnson selected a pink knit suit with matching accessories and she was presented a pink and white carnation corsage. Mrs. Robitaille wore a mint green ensemble with matching accessories and pinned a corsage of yellow and white carnations.

The wedding reception was held during the afternoon and evening at the Sherman Hotel.

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:
Please let an old man join your circle of housewives with a salad tip.

My wife concocted a salad dressing that we've both enjoyed.

Since I have to use saccharin in my coffee and other drinks, she decided to make a salad dressing with saccharin as the basic ingredient.

She used two tablespoons of warm water for dissolving three quarter - grain tablets. Then added three tablespoons of vinegar and oil to taste. Stir this and pour over the salad.

The saccharin and vinegar have no calories. The only calories you get is in the amount of oil you use.

Know somethin' folks?

It's just the mostest...

It's sure gonna taste like that original wilted lettuce salad dressing grandma used to make. Remember it?

I used crisp bacon chips left over from breakfast, salt and pepper, and shook it vigorously before pouring it on my salad.

I only had half-grain tablets, so used two of 'em along with the vinegar and two tablespoons of salad oil. (But you can put more or less oil depending on your own taste.)

Especially nice for those who can't eat sugar, and my, oh my, does it taste good on that lettuce and tomato salad!

Frosting The Cake

The "frosting on the cake" is frequently said to mean a "sweet extra." Which it is. And more, for besides embellishing, sugar-made frosting keeps cake fresh. Frosting excludes surface air that can cause dry staleness, and thereby holds in moisture. That's why the layers of a many-tiered wedding cake can be made days ahead. They will stay fresh during the time necessary to fill, frost and finally decorate with sugar shapes and symbolic wedding images.

Will Taxpayers Revolt?

School Millages Face Showdowns

LANSING (AP) — Voters went to the polls throughout Michigan today for a showdown in the so-called taxpayers revolt against school board requests for more money.

An estimated 220 millage and bond elections were scheduled. Voters turned down 45 per cent of all millage requests and 68 per cent of the bond proposals sought during the first five months of 1969, according to a survey by the Associated Press and its member newspapers.

But citizen groups, teachers—even pupils—have worked to change that trend in today's elections. In the mid-Michigan city of Williamston, students worked for voter approval of an additional 6-mill levy that may mean the difference between opening a new school or leaving it empty.

Cutbacks

Supt. Fred Gable has warned that a millage defeat could mean half-day sessions at the elementary level and a reduction of staff and extracurricular activities at the junior and senior high schools.

"What use is an empty school? Vote yes June 9," read banners carried by young people in a recent Williamston parade. Others voted signs urging a "yes" vote today.

Students canvassed the town earlier, armed with bumper stickers and fact sheets about school financing.

"The kids are working hard for a good education," says Larry Dorow, past president of the Williamston Education Association. "I just hope it won't all have been for nothing."

Student Workers

A group of Lansing students carried out a similar campaign and the local board of Education purchased television time to plead for millage approval.

A "boost your community committee" worked at Grand Ledge, where an 11-mill proposal was on the ballot today. Voters have said "no" to four previous millage requests in little over one year, leaving a $1.4 million school empty because there was no money for its operation.

The Grand Ledge board of education already has outlined a "drastic crisis" budget program for the coming year.

A threatened 100 - teacher lay-off hinged on the outcome of a once-defeated millage vote at Muskegon.

Jackson voters were to decide on an 8.5-mill request which, if approved, could alleviate severe cutbacks made in the school program because of four recent millage defeats.

Reviews System

Gov. William Milliken and Dr. Ira Polley, state superintendent of public instruction, both have noted the taxpayers' revolt and called for review of the system which finds local voters turning down more and more pleas for funds.

Milliken himself heads an education reform commission, charged with making recommendations for implementation by the Legislature this fall.

But both Milliken and Polley have urged taxpayers to support education at the local level.

"Too many schools are in deepening financial dilemmas," Milliken says. "The solution depends on the willingness of citizens to understand the problems of the schools and to esteem education enough to support those schools with dollars."

The Legislature also is trying to alleviate what many school officials consider a crisis situation.

The House last week extended by two years the life of the school bond loan fund, set up in 1965 to help school districts finance construction projects.

The Senate, meanwhile, approved a bill which appropriates chairman Charles O. Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, said could untangle a legal hang-up and free some $26 million in already approved school construction bonds.

Scranton Woman Better Next Day... Pain Of Piles Relieved

Treatment Promptly Relieves Pain, Itching In Most Cases

Scranton, Pa. Mrs. J. Straniere, Jr. of this city writes: "When I had our son, I got hemorrhoids and how painful. My husband bought Preparation H for me. The next day, I was much better—just after using it once."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced. There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

McNeely Claims Milliken Only Shows Concern

SOUTH HAVEN (AP)—James McNeely, State Democratic party chairman, has charged Gov. William Milliken with "only expressing concern" about Michigan problems.

"Gov. Milliken has three ways of expressing how worried he is on any given subject," McNeely told a Democratic dinner at South Haven Sunday night.

"The governor is either 'concerned', 'seriously concerned' or 'deeply concerned'."

"Unfortunately," he said, "none of these expressions of concern ever lead him to take a leadership position in solving the problem."

McNeely said the governor has talked repeatedly about his concern for the problems of mental health, urban areas and recreation but has given no leadership to the Legislature in these areas.

McNeely further charged the governor:

—Put off a decision of the reform of educational financing until fall.

—Indicated a favorable posture but avoided a definitive commitment on parochialism.

—Talked about the need for more low income housing but refused to follow through with a dollar and cents commitment.

"Sincerity and concern are no substitute for leadership, and without leadership soon from the governor, this state will be in a horrible mess," McNeely said.

Escanaba Area Residents Voting On School Board

Voters in the Escanaba Area School District are going to the polls today to elect two members to the Board of Education for a full term of four years, ending June 30, 1973 and one member to fill an unexpired term of two years ending June 30, 1971.

Candidates for the two four-year terms are Charles Tooman, 215 Ogden Ave.; Kenneth West, 636 S. 17th St.; and Gary Barton of Soo Hill.

Ronald Lankford, 2519 S. 22nd St. and Carl Anderson, 1502 Willow Creek Rd., are candidates for the two-year term.

Voters are reminded that precinct 1 has been moved from the County Building to the Franklin School.

Precincts reported a light turnout at noon today in an early call-in to school officials at the administration building.

Tooman, West and Lankford are incumbent members of the board, West winning election last year and Tooman and Lankford appointed to fill vacancies on the board until today's election.

Other members of the board are Ralph Kaziatek, Dr. Donald Alimenti, Albin Pearson Jr., all of Escanaba, and Daniel Wellman of Ford River.

Members of the board elected today will take office July 1.

Polls will remain open until 8 p.m. today.

With the exception of the change from the County Building to the Franklin School, regular city voting precincts are being used in Escanaba. Township voters will cast ballots at the Ford River, Wells and Cornell schools, respectively.

Three Injured, None Seriously, In Two Crashes

Three persons were injured, none seriously, in traffic mishaps in Escanaba over the weekend, it is reported by city police.

Rose Nargo, 15, of Bay View Location, and Timothy Taylor, 19, Racine, Wis., passengers in a car driven by Michael J. Meyer, 18, of 1326 N. 23rd St., were injured when the car struck a power line pole in the west alley of the 1500 block, Washington Ave., at 8:34 p.m. Saturday.

Mary Fish, 17, of 322 N. 16th St., another passenger, and the driver, were uninjured. Police ticketed Meyer for careless driving.

Injured in an accident at 2nd Ave. S. and 8th St. at 5:32 p.m. Sunday was Patricia Fuller, 24, of 1620 1st Ave. S.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Alexander Bouchard, 716 3rd Ave. S. The other car was driven by James V. Bourdeau, 28, of 619 N. 20th St.

Sled Dog Race

KALKASKA (AP)—The Great Lakes Sled Dog Association has announced that Kalkaska will be the scene of the 1970 National Sled Dog Championships next February. The association said a purse of $3,000 will be offered and entries are anticipated from as far away as Alaska.

Deputies said Watchhorn was coming out of a driveway onto County Rd. 483 when he struck Baker's car in the side. Watchhorn was thrown clear on impact and escaped injury, according to the Sheriff's Department.

Officers said Baker also escaped injury. Damages to his car were estimated at $300.

Watchhorn was given a ticket for failing to yield the right of way.

Personnel Needed

by Globe, Ishpeming

Why?

Sixteen years ago, Globe started as a one-man print shop. Soon there were three employees and with this additional personnel Globe pioneered offset-lithography in the Upper Peninsula. After this start, Globe moved to larger quarters, added more equipment, increased its personnel and pioneered again. This time in color lithography.

In recent years Globe linked its lithographic operation with publishing, advertising and public relations. For the past five years the Traveler, the only complete guide to Michigan's Upper Peninsula, has been published by Globe along with other publications and periodicals. Presently being developed is Opportunity North, a new concept in publications scheduled to make its first appearance in early July.

We attribute much of our success to finding and keeping competent, qualified personnel... people with the ability to see potential and the enthusiasm to grow with Globe in providing the communication services needed in a growing Upper Peninsula.

Now...

We are expanding our operations and need additional personnel.

We Need...

SALES PERSONNEL to assist in representing Globe throughout the Upper Peninsula, to serve commercial accounts and sell advertising space in publications. While sales experience is desirable, a prime consideration would be that our representative have a deep interest in the progress of the Upper Peninsula and a genuine desire to serve clients. A knowledge of printing, advertising, and public relations will be beneficial.

CREATIVE PERSONNEL -- Needed are people who can contribute to our prominence in the publications field, people with competence in advertising, public relations, people with a flair for creative production. We need those with talents in writing, layout and design, art, copywriting, photography, etc.

PRODUCTION PERSONNEL -- If you have a background in printing or lithography, contact us today. We have immediate and near future openings in most departments, including: composition, camera, platemaking, pressroom, bindery, maintenance, and delivery. While experience is desirable, it is not necessary. It's possible to learn while you learn.

OFFICE PERSONNEL -- We have near future openings for persons with experience in accounting, purchasing, price estimating. Also for receptionist and secretarial work.

Shopping Plaza Suggested To Help Downtown Image

A shopping plaza for Escanaba's downtown area was suggested to enhance Escanaba's image as the retail shopping center of the area by Albert Chipman at a meeting of the Downtown Development Committee of the Escanaba Area Chamber of Commerce Friday at the Sherman Hotel.

Chipman is associated with A. B. Chipman Corp. of Chicago. He specializes in store planning and in addition to remodeling for a major department store in Chicago, he has been retained by a chain of stores with branches in five midwestern states. At present he is engaged in an urban renewal program in Michigan City, Indiana.

Chipman suggested several ideas which might be incorporated into an over-all theme for the downtown area. These included a nautical theme, logging and early American. He emphasized that it is not necessary to tear down buildings and rebuild, pointing out there are many existing structures that can be rebuilt and remodeled to be more functional and attractive.

Need Total Plan

Chipman recommended a new comprehensive - all over remodeling plan of the downtown area from 8th to 15th Streets. A new image must be developed for Ludington St., he said, and suggested the planting of trees, with perhaps an avenue of birches.

Citing the artifacts in the Delta County Historical Museum on Sand Point, he said Escanaba is rich in history which suggests many possibilities for an over-all theme.

A new traffic pattern could be developed; organized parking areas, new pedestrian malls, new planned coordinated signing for stores, streets, and parking lots. Signing should be consistent and kept in scale to be attractive.

Street lighting can be utilized.

Briefly Told

The June meeting of the Silver Spur Saddle Club will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday at the home of Donald Poe in Kipling.

Mrs. Henry Luokkanen, Rte. 1, Gladstone, reported to State Police the malicious destruction of her mailbox. Officers said the box was knocked off its post by vandals.

Escanaba Police are investigating malicious damage at Lakeview Cemetery, reported to officers today. About 35 grave markers were knocked down in the nighttime over the weekend.

State Police issued citations Saturday to John L. Greene, Rte. 1, Gladstone, no registration plates on trailer; and Edward A. Scott, Rte. 1, Gladstone, no registration plates on car.

The L. A. to the B. of R. T. will hold their regular meeting in the Elk's club room on Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. Hostess for the social will be Liz Longline, assisted by Rose Cloutier, Rose Anderson and Pearl McCauley.

The Marine Deputy of the Sheriff's Department issued tickets over the weekend to Phillip Vanelacker, 17, Rte. 1, Escanaba, no life jackets; and Dennis McMillan, 17, 1616 S. 17th Ave., Escanaba, no registration. Both citations were issued on the Ford River.

Traffic court notices have been issued by Escanaba police to Gary C. Abrahamson, Box 19, Escanaba, speeding and no operator's license on person; Pierre Tousignant, Montreal; John Hamilton, Montreal; Francis R. Gatien, Powers; and Anthony C. Lane, 1017 2nd Ave. S., all for speeding.

to tie in with the general theme of the area, whether it is early American, nautical or some other theme adopted by the businessmen.

Some of the architecture in the buildings on Ludington St. is rich in history and these could be remodeled and designed to retain the original architecture, to create attention and to help in creating an image for the downtown area.

Re-Name Streets?

Chipman also suggested planned maintenance of pedestrian cross walks, painting them green edged in yellow, bringing the stores closer to the shoppers they are trying to reach and not giving all of the attention to the automobile.

He also suggested re-naming streets to tie in with the over-all theme. Drugs stores, restaurants, taverns and eating places could lend themselves to special treatment. Why not a sidewalk cafe or a beer garden? The weather would affect some of these developments but shipping centers incorporate these ideas in their over-all planning, he said.

Rear Entrances Needed

Chipman also suggested closing off some of the streets - many cities have street malls, with expansion of existing stores and additional shops add. Malls lend themselves well to art exhibits, auto shows, etc., and another idea would be to inaugurate one way traffic on Ludington St., breaking up the long line of the street with tree patterns.

Important to the development of the downtown shopping plaza is the opening up of rear entrances of stores to parking areas. Shutters and canopies can be utilized in the over-all remodeling scheme, he said.

Robert Mosenfelder, chairman of the Individual Stores Participation Committee, conducted the question and answer period which followed Chipman's talk. The meeting concluded with a general discussion on the over-all cost of remodeling of exteriors and interiors of the store buildings.

Mosenfelder emphasized that remodeling can be carried out on as small or large a scale as desired by the retailer. Changes can be done in stages and remodeling and redecorating can be done on a long-range plan. A general theme would help to achieve a unified look for the downtown area, he said.

Troopers Raid Beer Party

State Police arrested 14 Rapid River youths during a raid on a beer party late Sunday night. The party was being held near the Whitefish River at an open spot in the woods just off County Rd. 509, officers said.

Following the raid, troopers arrested Daniel L. Mosser, 23, and William J. Rushford, 24, both of Rapid River, for furnishing to minors.

The following were charged with being minors in possession: Linda S. Quick, 20; Gregory Viau, 20; Thomas Novak, 19; Larry P. Stock, 19; Steven A. Pyke, 19; Gregory L. Feathers, 17; Joseph Columb, 17; John Proehl, 19; Terry L. Green, 17; and Eugene Mroz, 20; all of Rapid River.

Troopers said two juveniles were also arrested and referred to Probate Court.

Anderson Voted Lions Governor

Ralph L. Anderson of Escanaba Saturday was elected Governor of District 10 Lions Clubs at the district's 47th annual convention at Marquette.

Anderson, 64, is the first district governor to be elected from the Escanaba Lions Club since Arthur Goulais won the office in 1935.

A total of 41 Lions clubs from throughout the Upper Peninsula were represented by 176 delegates at the convention Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Holiday Inn.

Anderson, 528 S. 9th St., succeeds G. F. Biekkola of L'Anse as the top Lions official in the district.

Delegates to the convention selected Hancock to be the host city for the 1970 convention.

Principal speaker at the Governor's Banquet in the Great Lakes Rooms of Northern Michigan University's student center Saturday was Floyd D. Hammond, of Phoenix, Ariz., international director.

New clubs welcomed in the district were Engadine and Dollar Bay.

Attending the convention from Escanaba were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Saykily, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Foltman, Mr. and Mrs. August Brazeau, Mr. and Mrs. Don Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Peterson, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Breaud and Mr. and Mrs. Harold T. Olsen.

Two Are Hurt In Car Mishap

State Police of the Gladstone Post investigated four accidents over the weekend, one of which resulted in injury to two persons.

Saturday on County Rd. 426 in Cornell Township, officers said a car driven by William Savard, 33, 327 S. 15th St., Escanaba, ran off the road when he failed to negotiate a curve. Savard and his wife, Arlene, were slightly injured, treated at St. Francis Hospital and released. Troopers issued Savard a summons for violation of the basic speed law, too fast for conditions.

Also Saturday on U.S. 2 just west of Escanaba, police said a car driven by William Ramspeck, Rte. 1, Escanaba, failed to negotiate a left turn and ran off the road into a ditch. Police said Ramspeck was not injured.

At 1 a.m. Saturday on County Rd. 432, troopers said a car driven by James Lippens, 19, Rte. 1, Rock, swerved to avoid hitting a deer, ran off the road and hit a tree. Officers said Lippens was not injured, but that there was extensive damage to his car.

Sunday on County Rd. 414 in Wells, Township, police reported a car driven by Samuel D. Mills, 31, Rte. 1, Escanaba, was being pulled from a ditch by Quinton L. Way, 1, Rte. 1, Escanaba. When Way stopped his vehicle, Mills' auto continued rolling, striking the Way vehicle officers said. No injuries were reported. Way was given a summons for no operator's license.

Death Claims Mrs. E. Hamelin

Mrs. Emma O. Hamelin, 77, of 313 S. 19th St. died at 11:15 a.m. Sunday at St. Francis Hospital where she had been a patient for two weeks.

She was born July 20, 1891 in Bark River and her husband died June 3, 1959. Mrs. Hamelin was a member of the Immanuel Lutheran Church.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Donald (Elaine) Ryan of Escanaba, two grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Anna Hansen of Escanaba.

Friends may call at the Anderson Funeral Home from 4 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and the body will be removed to the church at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday where complete funeral services will be conducted at 1:30 p.m. Pastor Roger Patrow will officiate and burial will be in Lakeview Cemetery.

Cubs Triumph In Debut, 4-3

The defending U.P. champion Escanaba Cubs made their 1969 debut in the Waubung League a successful one when they handed Schaffer a 4-3 defeat in a game played Sunday at the Al Ness Field.

Escanaba scored four runs on eight hits while Schaffer tallied three times on seven hits.

Jack Johnson, Al Larson and Doug Howard toiled on the mound for the Cubs, with Larson picking up the victory. The three Cub hurlers struck out a total of 12 Schaffer batsmen. Dwayne Klein suffered the defeat for Schaffer.

Dan Mylander and Pete Ross led the Cubs at the plate with three hits apiece while Terry Scheeneman and Wade Johnson picked up the same number of hits apiece for Schaffer.

The Cubs return to action this Wednesday evening at the Al Ness Field against Powers. Game time is 6 p.m.

Royals' Harris Suffers Injury

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Harris of the Kansas City Royals has been lost for an indefinite period with a bad ankle sprain suffered on the last play of Sunday's 8-2 loss to the Boston Red Sox.

Harris, attempting to beat out a shot back to the mound, caught his spikes in the first base bag and crashed heavily to the ground. He rolled over in agony, and was carried from the field on a stretcher.

A club spokesman said later the X-rays indicated no broken bones. He said Harris suffered a sprain on the left ankle and would be out for some time.

FOOTBALL WINS OUT

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Bob Anderson has been an outstanding catcher on the University of Colorado baseball team, but he turned his back on the diamond this spring to concentrate on football practice. As quarterback of the 1968 Buffaloes he set a total offense record in the Big Eight Conference.

Grey admitted there had been physical contact between players during the game and admitted using "my forearm to try to keep him away from the basket."

Alcindor, when informed of the seriousness of the injury, called the hospital and apologized. He said he would pay all medical expenses.

Alcindor Sorry After Punching

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lew Alcindor, three-time UCLA All-American basketball star, has apologized for punching Los Angeles Stars' center Dennis Grey but Grey, his jaw shattered isn't talking.

Alcindor, the 7-foot-1½ agile giant who led the Bruins to three straight national titles, sent Grey of the American Basketball Association Stars reeling Saturday during a pick-up basketball game. The blow sent Grey to a local hospital where a two-hour operation was required to set his broken bones.

Grey said the altercation came after Lew had made a stuff shot to end the game at the Hamilton High School gymnasium. He said Alcindor suddenly lashed out. A few words were exchanged and Alcindor, unaware of the injury he had caused, left.

Grey admitted there had been physical contact between players during the game and admitted using "my forearm to try to keep him away from the basket."

Alcindor, when informed of the seriousness of the injury, called the hospital and apologized. He said he would pay all medical expenses.

Gooch pitching, not Mickey Mantle Day, inspired the New York Yankees to play like the Yankees of old. And it also served as an inspiration for the new Seattle Pilots to play like the Pilots of old.

With many former great Yankees and the largest crowd in the majors this season—60,090—on hand to do honor to Mantle, the Yankees swept a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 3-1 and 11-2 Sunday.

But Manager Ralph Houk dismissed any thoughts that Mantle's presence had anything to do with the twin victories that boosted the Yankees to .500 for the first time since May 1.

Good Pitching
"The inspiration comes when you get good pitching," Houk said, referring to Mel Stottlemyre's three-hitter and a six-hitter by rookie Bill Burbach.

The Pilots, however, have no glorious past or former stars like the Yankees, but for the first 49 games of their existence, they had compiled the remarkable record for an expansion team of having never been shut out.

That ended Saturday when Jim Palmer of Baltimore blanked them, but the Pilots wasted little time returning to their good old ways, scoring five runs in the first inning Sunday en route to a 7-5 victory over the Orioles.

Lomborg Wins

Jim Lomborg also continued to look like the pitcher he was in the past by hurling Boston to an 8-2 victory over Kansas City.

In other games, Washington beat Minnesota 7-5 in 12 innings and Cleveland blanked California 3-0 before losing 3-2, Oakland was rained out at Detroit.

Stottlemyre, 9-4, the best Yankee pitcher since the days of Mantle's prime years, gave up a run in the second inning, worked out of a bases loaded jam in the third and didn't allow a hit for the last six innings.

Joe Pepitone, resembling the slugger who won pennants for the Yanks of yesteryear, supplied the power with his 13th homer of the season with two on in the fourth off loser Gerry Nyman, 2-2.

Burbach Stars

After the between-game ceremonies in which Mantle's No. 7 uniform was officially retired, Burbach, 3-4, took over. He gave up only a third inning homer to Ed Hermann and a run in the eighth and started a decisive five-run fifth inning with a double.

Pepitone's two-run single capped the rally and Horace Clarke tripled in three runs in the next inning.

"It was a good day all around," said a smiling Houk as the Yankees swept the four game set with four straight complete games.

With Mark Belanger's error opening the gates, Seattle jumped on Mike Cuellar, 6-5, at

Majestic Prince Fails In Triple Crown Bid

NEW YORK (AP) — Will they love Majestic Prince in September as they did in May?

Frank McMahon's big chestnut colt, who raced to spectacular victories in the Kentucky Derby and Preakness last month and into the hearts and imagination of the public, is no longer unbeaten and is not the Triple Crown champion his admirers hoped for.

Defeat, by 5½ lengths, came Saturday in the $147,800 Belmont Stakes and the conqueror was Rokeby Stable's Arts and Letters, the Prince's victim by a neck in the Derby and by a head in the Preakness.

Who's better?—a question that now has a solid foundation considering Arts and Letters' romp in the tough, 1½-mile Belmont compared to Majestic Prince's narrow victories in the shorter Derby and Preakness.

The answer should start coming in the late summer or fall when the two colts return to the races after being rested.

"Maybe we're the champion after all," trainer Elliott Burch, who, with Arts and Letters, scored his third Belmont victory, said Sunday. "We lost the first two by less than a half length and won this one by 5½."

"It was one of those things," said Johnny Longden, trainer of Majestic Prince. "I still think we have a good horse, and he'll be back in the fall."

The Belmont had no sooner ended, with Dike, Distray, Rooney's Shield and Prime Fool following the Big Two under the wire, than the second guessing started.

Was Bill Hartack, aboard Majestic Prince, fooled by the exceedingly slow pace? Was the distance too much for the Prince? Was he fit?

"The colt just relaxed too much on Bill without him realizing it," said Longden. "There's no doubt Hartack should have been closer to such a slow pace, but I'm not blaming anybody."

However, television commentator Eddie Arcaro, like Longden a former great jockey, said:

"I've never seen anyone trapped by such a slow pace in a Belmont. I think it cost him his chance for the Triple Crown."

Hartack, who would not comment, kept Majestic Prince off the pace even after Arts and Letters had taken the lead and by the time Prince made his challenge, the winner and jockey Braulio Baeza were too far in front. The time was 2:28 4-5, far off the track and stakes record of 2:26 3-5 by Gallant Man in 1957.

Longden, who wanted to skip the Belmont because the Prince had lost weight and because he thought 1½ miles was too much as this stage of the career, didn't think the distance beat his colt. Burch agreed.

"It wasn't the fact that he couldn't catch my horse at a mile and a half Saturday."

Longden, who was overruled by McMahon in his decision to skip the Belmont, said there was nothing wrong with the Prince's condition going into the race, and McMahon said the colt would not run if he was not sound, regardless of the fact he was stabled at Belmont Park.

Sunday, Longden said, "No regrets, I have no regrets. The horse pulled up okay, and now I can give him a rest and that's about it."

This Belmont could be called the Prevention Belmont. Arts and Letters' victory prevented: —Majestic Prince from becoming the ninth Triple Crown winner and first since Citation in 1948.

—Majestic Prince from winning his 10th race and being the first Triple Crown winner never to have lost.

—Longden from becoming the first man to train and ride Triple Crown winners.

—Arts and Letters from becoming the first to finish second in all three of the races.

Northrup Put In NAIA Hall

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Detroit Tiger outfielder Jim Northrup has been named to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics baseball hall of fame.

The 29-year-old Northrup starred in four sports at Alma College in Michigan and turned down offers to play football with the Chicago Bears and New York Titans.

Huge Racing Crowd Enjoys Thrilling Night At Track

Thrills, chills and spills. These are three words often used when talking about racing and 3,250 racing fans in Escanaba can truly attest to these words, as they witnessed some of the most exciting races seen in several years.

Two nights of rainouts saw the crowd pay $1.23 a point to the drivers, top paying crowd of the season.

In modified action, Ken Iverson of Escanaba captured the

Bat Day Crowd Lost To Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers gained a little Sunday—but they lost a lot more.

The rainout of their scheduled game against Oakland, combined with Baltimore's 7-5 loss to Seattle, reduced the Orioles' 9½-game lead in the East Division of the American League to a not-much-better nine games over third place Detroit.

But Sunday was Bat Day at Tiger Stadium and a crowd of 50,000 was expected, with up to 30,000 bats to be given out to customers 14 and under. All reserved seats for the game had been sold.

Although a new Bat Day has been set up for Sunday, June 22, it can't be certain the Tigers will do as well at the gate.

Sunday's rainout was rescheduled for Aug. 28—a previously open date. So far the Tigers have been the victims of five rainouts—two at home—and now must have the makeups squeezed into the already tight schedule that they must face in the coming months.

Three of the rescheduled games will be part of two-night doubleheaders. The other two are on days the Tigers previously had off.

Joe Sparna, 3-1, who was to be the Tiger pitcher Sunday, was the probably to start tonight's game against Seattle. Marty Pattin, 5-4, was expected to start for the Pilots.

20-lap feature after the furious action caused four restarts to occur before the conclusion of the race. Ed Provo of Escanaba gave the crowd a scare when he flipped his modified over the sand bank coming out of the corner. He landed on the roof, but walked away uninjured.

In the feature, Wayne Carter of Soo, Canada, jumped into an early lead and held it for six laps. Bob Iverson moved to the front at that point but car trouble forced him to drop out after holding the lead for two laps. His brother Ken then moved into first while Ed Powley of the Soo chased him for the next 14 laps, but could not pass him. John O'Reilly, another Canadian, took third.

Don Benoit of Escanaba finished the evening a double winner. He started out by winning the first heat after moving into first on the third lap beating Harlan Smith of Escanaba to the finish line by a wide margin. Bob Ross of Gwinn was third.

Benoit came back to capture the semi-feature, catching Dave Christensen of Escanaba on the seventh lap and driving to an easy victory. Ross then nipped Christensen for third place.

It was a Canadian battle in the second heat, as Carter won by a comfortable margin over fellow-Canadian O'Reilly. John Erickson of Escanaba was third.

Bob Iverson captured the third heat in a race that was close for twelve laps. Iverson grabbed the lead from Jim Peterson of Kingsford on the eighth lap, Peterson regained it on the next lap, then Iverson passed him the next time around and nipped him at the finish line. Gary Randall of Escanaba finished third, Iverson again took time trial honors in a time of 1:18.37.

Ron Paquette of Kingsford emerged victorious in the sportsmen feature after a crashing, banging race that left cars and parts scattered over the track. With 20 cars trying for positions, Pat Temple of Norway, starting in the front row, jumped into the lead. He and Paquette waged an exciting race with Paquette moving into the number one spot with three laps to go. Temple had to settle for second and Duke Gardiner of Escanaba moved into third. Paquette also took top time of 2:04.3.

The semi-feature was another thriller, as Bob Bowden of Escanaba, Marvin Jacobsen of Little Lake and Dennis Kivioja of Gwinn took turns in first place. The race was decided on the last two laps when Kivioja took over first and received the flag. Jacobsen was second and Bowden finished third.

Gardiner captured the fast third heat. The crowd came to its feet when John Kroll of Wells rolled over on the third lap. The car landed on its side in the corner, but Kroll walked away uninjured.

In the tough race, Gardiner passed Ted Mott of Bark River on the sixth lap and then off Paquette, who finished second while Temple placed third.

The second heat was won by Greg Cousineau of Kingsford, who took the lead on the first lap and led all the way. Bill DeShambo of Arnold was second and Tim Faul of Norway was third.

Jacobsen took honors in the first heat, winning easily over Kivioja, while Bowden placed third.

Gene Mauch finally has kicked his habit, with a helping hand from the Montreal Expos' new third base coach... a fellow named Gene Mauch.

Mauch, long-suffering manager of the National League expansion club, stationed himself on the coaching line for the first time this season Sunday... and the Expos promptly broke their near-record losing streak at 20 games by squeezing past Los Angeles 4-3.

"I decided I'd try it while I was driving home last night," the Expos' skipper said of his decision to quit the dugout for the third base coach's box. "I was the best third base coach I ever saw when I was in the minors."

"If I thought it would help, I'd coach both first and third base at the same time."

Rookie right-hander Jerry Robertson, backed by Rusty Staub's two-run homer and Mack Jones' bases-empty blast, posted his first major league victory as the Expos ended their tailspin three losses short of the all-time mark... set by Mauch's 1961 Philadelphia Phillies.

The New York Mets ran their unbeaten string to 10 games with a 3-2 comeback victory over San Diego; San Francisco stretched Philadelphia's losing skid to eight games with a 9-8 12-inning nod; Houston nipped St. Louis 2-1 in 11 innings and Atlanta swept a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 11-0 and 4-3.

Rain washed out the Cincinnati-Chicago Cubs game.

Robertson, starting for only the fourth time, took a two-hitter and a 4-1 lead into the ninth at Los Angeles, but gave up two more hits and needed help from veteran Elroy Face as the Dodgers rallied for a pair of runs.

"The toughest part of the whole streak was that ninth inning," said Mauch.

Wayne Garrett's run-scoring single capped a two-run eighth inning rally that swept the Mets past San Diego, giving right-hander Tom Seaver his ninth victory against three losses. Seaver struck out 14 Padres in seven innings, then left for a hitter in the eighth as the Mets came from behind against rookie Al Santorini.

"The Mets' winning string matched Houston's 10-game run last month as the longest in the majors this year."

Jim Davenport's bases-loaded single with none out in the 12th broke an 8-8 deadlock at San Francisco, giving the Giants their fifth straight victory. Richie Allen homered twice for the Phillies and Willie Mays unloaded a pinch hit homer for the Giants.

Larry Dierker, 8-4, pitched a five-hitter and drove in the winning run with an 11th inning single, carrying the Astros past St. Louis.

Hank Aaron's 15th homer, a solo shot in the eighth, won the opener for the Braves after they blew a 9-1 lead. Jerry May pinch hit a grand slam homer for the Pirates after teammates Jose Pagan drilled his first and second homers of the season.

Pitcher Milt Pappas smacked a two-run homer, helping Atlanta erase a 3-0 first inning deficit in the nightcap. Orlando Cepeda, hitless in 18 previous trips to the plate, drove in the winning run with a sixth inning single.

Mead jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the top half of the first inning of the nightcap with UAW-CIO, but UAW-CIO came roaring back in the bottom half of the same inning to tie the score at 3-3. Mead added a single run in the third, one in the fourth, two in the fifth and another in the sixth to score the 8-5 victory.

Bill Johnson picked up the victory on the mound for Mead, allowing five runs and eight hits. Rookie Brian Douglas went all the way for UAW-CIO and was charged with the defeat.

Gary Brawley of Mead had the distinction of hitting the first home run of the Babe Ruth League season when he poled a 325-foot blast over the center-field fence in the sixth inning.

Babe Ruth League action resumes tonight when Teamsters meets Mead at the league field at 6.

Jim Neveala, last year's Little League Player of the Year, led the Kiwanis nine to a 7-3 victory over the Insurance team in the second game. Neveala had two hits in the game, both doubles, driving in four runs. His last double broke up a 3-3 tie in the eighth inning.

Mike Dailey picked up the victory for Kiwanis, allowing just one hit, a seventh inning single by Jim Moberg. Wayne Schwalbach took the defeat for Insurance.

In the first game of the long afternoon, the Teamsters handed the Bankers a 5-1 defeat behind the five-hit pitching of Mike Cousineau. The Teamsters opened the scoring with three runs in the third inning and added single runs in the sixth and the seventh to wrap up the victory.

Milliken Again Defends Recreation Bond Plans

Gov. William Milliken defended his legislative recommendation that most of the $100 million recreation bond fund be spent in urban areas of the state when he spoke Saturday night before the Michigan Association of Outdoor Writers (MOWA) in convention at Blaney Park.

"I personally hold firm to my belief that more money must go into urban areas than would be provided by the original 70-30 proposal," the Michigan governor told the writers, who generally disagree with his formula.

Voters approved the $100 million recreational bond issue last November, most with the understanding that 70 per cent would go for state-wide recreational development and 30 per cent to urban areas.

Since approval of the bond issue, however, the governor has supported a distribution which would funnel the major share of funds into inner-city development.

Five-Year Plan

He is also recommending a five-year program of development "in order to sooner satisfy these urgent needs" rather than

A five-year program of spending would cut inflationary losses — land, labor and building material costs — and would curb any pork-barreling such as might occur if the spending was stretched over too many years, he suggested.

Since few communities are able to implement the spending of a significant share of the bond money in the near future and should have time to develop their community recreation plans and submit applications, he said he is reviewing proposed legislation to allocate $20 million for first-year spending.

A slow approach will also allow the Department of Natural Resources (who will administer funding) time to establish priorities and procedures.

The governor was given a standing ovation when he introduced and the writers listened intently while he delivered his address.

Whether he convinced them remains to be seen.

Good Day For Governor

Everything went right for Gov. William G. Milliken Saturday.

His flight was due in at the Schoolcraft County airport at 5 p.m. but he didn't keep anyone waiting since he arrived 15 minutes early.

He drove from the airport to Blaney Park, about 18 miles, but U.S. 2 is in decent repair along that stretch and he was spared any embarrassing questions about his ride on the "pot holes" or bumpy roadway.

Shortly after arriving at Blaney Park, he was asked to take part in a "frisbee toss" on the lawn of the Inn as part of a promotion for the International Frisbee Contest in Eagle Harbor on July 7. He didn't miss a catch while the television camera was busy recording the event.

The audience was attentive and respectful during his address to the Michigan Outdoor Writers Association even though he mused aloud that he realized he was addressing the "70-30 or fight" club (referring to the MOWA's endorsement of the $100 million recreation bond funding and in opposition to the governor's proposal.)

the 10-year spread which was suggested during the bond issue campaign.

"My commitment, my obligation, was to recommend a program that was based on the latest information and could best meet our most urgent needs," he said, disavowing that the 70-30 proposal represented a "commitment."

Critics of the governor's proposal argued that since the 70-30 division was the selling point of the bond issue campaign, its passage was a mandate of the people and should be honored by the legislature.

(Only two counties in the Upper Peninsula passed the bond issue: Delta and Chippewa. The issue failed in Wayne County which could conceivably reap the richest rewards if the legislature approves the recommendation.)

Plan Deviates

Admitting that "I deviated from earlier suggestions which I acknowledged to have wide support (the 70-30 plan) but which I believe to be outdated and unresponsive to current needs" Milliken said he arrived at his decision to recommend urban development after much study and thought.

In 30 years, he said, nine out of ten Americans will live in urban areas whereas today only seven out of ten Americans live in or near cities.

He emphasized, however, the obligation to rural areas of Michigan deprived of recreational facilities and quoted Dr. Ralph MacMullan, Department of Natural Resources head, who said "people who suffer from recreational anemia are not only found in our cities."

Milliken said he believed there was agreement on three objectives to govern the allocation of bond funds:

- Establish a local recreation program designed to stimulate local communities to invest in new facilities to meet local needs;
- Expand our state parks system and fish, game and campground facilities to meet escalating needs;
- Begin a program to meet critical recreation needs in the urban areas.

Council Tackles Off-Street Parking

Downtown parking will again be discussed when city council meets tonight at 7:30 at the city hall. Petitions are expected to be presented indicating the number of property owners who support or are opposed to the proposed off-street parking plan.

Council will also consider an offer from the Industrial Development Committee for purchase of a boat launching site and a resolution authorizing the city manager to file an application with the Economic Development Administration for a harbor project grant.

A decision will also be made on the hiring of an engineering firm to make a study and report on improvements to the waste water plant as required by the Water Resources Commission.

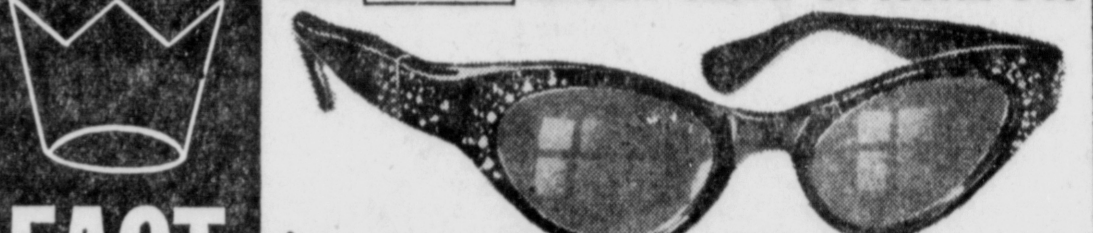

THE GOVERNOR OF MICHIGAN and the president of the Michigan Outdoor Writers Association talked it over at the MOWA's meeting at Blaney Park. Gov. William Milliken (left) addressed the group which has Kenneth S. Health Director, Dr. Eadie, Resigns

Dr. Gordon A. Eadie, director of the Alger-Schoolcraft-Lace Mackinac Health Department since 1966 will resign his position effective June 13.

No successor has been named to replace him.

Effective July 1, he will become Commissioner of Health of Rensselaer County, New York, with offices in Troy.

Dr. Eadie had announced his intention of resigning two months ago to the boards of supervisors of the four-county area he serves.

He expressed gratitude for the loyalty and teamwork of the four-county health department staffs and the cooperation of medical people, hospitals and community agencies during his period of directorship.

Dr. Eadie acknowledged that much progress has been made to conquer major public health problems. He specified certain areas of concern in the Upper Peninsula where improvements are still needed. Water pollution, air pollution (mainly tobacco smoke), improved mental health facilities and additional personnel.

The shortage of beds in hospitals, medical care facilities and nursing homes in the four-county area he serves were also mentioned as badly-needed improvements.

24 Jurors Drawn For June Term

Twenty-four petit jurors have been drawn for the June term of Circuit Court which will convene in Schoolcraft County on June 16. The jurors are to report for duty at 10 a.m. on June 18.

Notified to report for duty are Donald Lee Knoph, Margaret P. Pelon, Frank E. Krzyzanski, Judith Provo, Frederick Tyrell, Robert Weber, Violet Arnold, Gilbert Berwin, Helen Creighton, all of the city of Manistique.

Township jurors include Rita Chatter and Gregory Goudreau, Doyle; Leo Lawrence Sr. and Ruth Martensen, Germfask; Carla McKilligan and Donald Ott, Hiawatha; Gerald Swagart and Kenneth Cutler, Inwood.

Cecilia Fugere and Constance Berglund, Manistique; June Hoholik and John P. Olsen, Thompson; Effie Nelson and Jodean Berthume, Mueller; and Lois LaRose, Doyle.

Briefly Told

Job's Daughters, Bethel 69, will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Masonic Temple.

The polls will be open until 8 p.m. today for the annual school election.

St. Alban's Church is continuing their rummage sale in the undercroft of the church. Sales will begin every day at 9:30 until 12 noon.

Central, Fairview, Hiawatha and Doyle schools hot lunch menu for Tuesday will include baked fish squares, whipped potatoes, tartar sauce, buttered corn, Hawaiian delight and beverage.

The Community School Advisory Board will meet tomorrow noon in Room 103 of the Central School for their regular monthly meeting. All chairmen and delegates are asked to be present.

A car driven by Wendy L. Allen, 18, of Green Bay, Wis. struck and killed a deer at 9:30 p.m. Friday on County Road 499 in Nahma Township, state police report. No tickets or personal injuries were reported.

In Service

Capt. Alroy J. Mersnick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. Mersnick, 135 N. Houghton Ave., Manistique, is a member of a unit that has earned the U. S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

Capt. Mersnick, a fuels officer in the 21st Composite Wing at Elmendorf AFB, Alaska, will wear the distinctive service ribbon to mark his affiliation with the unit.

His unit was cited for its outstanding record in areas of combat readiness, training and support of the Southeast Asia effort. This is the third consecutive award the wing has won since its formation in July 1966.

Mersnick, a 1955 graduate of Manistique High School, received his B. S. degree from Wisconsin State University at Superior and was commissioned there in 1960 through the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps program. He is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Kiddies Parade Taking Shape

Plans are underway for the annual Kiddies Parade which will be held this year on July 3, according to Mrs. E. J. Doyle and Mrs. J. P. Quick, co-chairmen of the event.

The Parade will form at Triangle Park, opposite the Post Office, at 1 p.m. The children will march through the downtown business district at 1:30 and proceed to the A. F. Hall Stadium where prizes will be awarded. The Kiltie Band from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. will lead the parade.

Prizes will be awarded for both individual and group entries in comic, patriotic, prettiest and original divisions. Children may also enter with decorated bikes and pets. There will also be first and second prizes for different age groups. Any child 1 to 12 years of age may enter.

The Fourth of July activities are again being sponsored by American Legion Post 83. Judges and workers for the Kiddie Parade will be announced later.

Hickel Trains To Stay Fit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The exercises encourage quick reflexes, accurate counter punching and fancy footwork, useful skills for politics, but they mean physical fitness to Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel.

Hickel, 49, works out almost daily for exactly one hour either in the Interior Department gym or in a private athletic club a few blocks away.

Udall used to say, "I love that expression 'run for your life.'"

The big Arizonan was a familiar figure in blue workout clothes, jogging across capital parks or in the vanguard of a clutch of VIP's opening a new jogging trail.

Hickel's daily routine is that of a boxer: punching the speed bag, skipping rope, and jogging a precise 17 laps around the gym.

A former Claflin, Kan., farm boy, Hickel won the Kansas Golden Gloves welterweight boxing championship in 1938 at the age of 19.

He has stayed in training ever since, and hard work in his adopted state of Alaska helped keep him tough.

In 1940, Hickel turned up in Seward, Alaska, with 37 cents in his pocket. He washed dishes in a cafe, worked for a railroad, and turned to carpentry. Building homes in Anchorage led to a construction business and he was a millionaire by the time he won the Alaska governorship in 1966.

Both Sides File In Tenant Strike

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Both sides filed motions for summary judgement in the Ann Arbor rent strike conspiracy suit Friday but no final decision will be made for at least a week.

Washtenaw County Circuit Judge William Agar set a June 13 2 p.m. deadline for filing of further motions by the landlords and the Ann Arbor Tenants Union and promised to render a decision a short time after that.

The suit is being brought by six Ann Arbor landlords against almost 100 University of Michigan students for their actions in withholding rent from the landlords to enforce a demand for collective bargaining with tenants.

The strike is now in its fourth month.

Earlier in the day a few hundred U-M students met at the center of campus for an "informal rally" about the rent strike. The leaders of the strike explained their position and then most of the group marched to the offices of two of the major campus management agencies.

The rent strikers had four demands. They want:

—An explanation of the role of the John Birch society in the conspiracy suit being brought by the Ann Arbor landlords.

—Immediate opening of the books of the landlords for public scrutiny.

—The conspiracy charges dropped.

—The landlords to negotiate with the tenants union.

Lindberg Suspect Pleads Innocent

DETROIT (AP) — William DuPue of Detroit faces examination June 18 on a first-degree murder charge in the May 26th slaying of an off-duty State Police trooper.

DuPue, who surrendered to police Friday, pleaded innocent before Recorder's Judge Donald S. Leonard Saturday and was remanded to Wayne County Jail without bail.

Trooper Carl P. Lindberg was shot in the chest by two gunmen when he attempted to break up a robbery in a neighbor's apartment in Detroit. A native of Iron Mountain, he left a wife and baby daughter.

A second man is sought in the slaying.

Failing To Pay Fines

Drivers Lose Licenses In Record Number: Hare

LANSING (AP)—A new state law is resulting in Michigan drivers losing their licenses in record numbers, reports Secretary of State James Hare.

"The law is a monstrosity," Hare said. "When a driver does not pay a moving violation ticket within a 40-day period, he receives an automatic suspension."

"This suspension continues until he pays the ticket and sends in the court clearance with a penalty fee of $2."

Hare, a critic of the law, said it has resulted in thousands of suspensions since it went into effect in January "and the total is rising each day."

"The amazing thing to me is that there hasn't been a groundswell of criticism on the part of the suspended drivers," Hare said.

Hare said he thought the main reason for the lack of complaints is that many of the drivers still have their licenses in possession.

He predicted the protests will come when these drivers end up in jail or have their cars impounded for driving on suspended licenses.

Hare said he favors instead the so-called Illinois system, under which the driver surrenders his license to the arresting policeman until his court appearance.

Hare said actions against drivers, including license suspensions, revocations, cancellation, restrictions and denials, added up to more than 28,000 during the first four months of the year.

He said this was an increase of more than 7,000 over the same period last year.

In April alone, Hare said, 11,427 drivers had various actions taken against them. Nearly 5,000 of these actions were a direct result of the automatic suspension law, he reported.

$4.50 per hundred on a loan is 4½% interest, right?

WRONG!

Many car loans are advertised at $4.50 per hundred. People think this means 4½ per cent true annual interest. IT DOESN'T. You're actually paying nearly 9 per cent — when you can get it. Not everyone qualifies. It applies only to new cars, depends on the down payment, etc.

Before you buy a car, check with your credit union first. They'll not only give you the true cost on car financing, but rock-bottom rates on a loan as well. It pays to be a credit union family.
